

The Team of four then traverse inside the Magic Citadel and discover that it's broken up into different areas but Thomas called them "blocks" of the dungeon.

The First block which ran about 25 floors deep was a Prison of sorts.

The Group of Four was more than capable of taking down this area of the Citadel over the process of a few days.

Once they reached the 25'th basement floor the final door was locked but Thomas could feel magic coming from behind said locked door.

"I feel like we have done enough for now... Come on it's time to head back for now"

Thomas had started walking out as the others followed him unaware of what was going to happen next.
