

Wyatt had of course navigated this whole adventure from basically the whole beginning so when he revealed the 8th the final block he felt a bit confident in himself.

The 8th block was the core chambers of the citadel, a castle-like theme matching this area which just like the past floors was 25 floors deep.

In a change of events Thomas let Harry lead the team in which he was an excellent substitute leader of the group.

The team was working in perfect unison with each other, no problems or issues that had come up and were perfectly fine without getting exhausted until the very end of the fighting.

Wyatt had also noticed that they had completely gotten through the final area with the boss up ahead on the 25 floor but Thomas, playing it safe, pulled the team out to get some rest before the final battle.
