

You may be asking what was happening at Lionheart isles? Hugo Lionheart with former king Stu Lionheart had made the difficult choice to abandon their home and to properly get everyone else off the isles.

They were using their magic and powers to save the isles but after that failed the kingdom was lost and eventually after getting everything to a safe place the isles had sunk into the water.

However despite losing the isles and the title as prince Thomas was okay with it as he has friends and a girlfriend by his side and was ready to take on anything.

Thomas's parents and grandparents did move to Thomas's uncles house before having their own homes built in Montgomery city thanks to the Fairfield family using their connections to help them out.
