

Nathan, was just minding his business being in high school, when for some reason there was a bad video of him floating around at school.

He was unaware of who started the video but with the way that Nathan kept to himself and did not really bug or interact with anyone kinda made things more worse for him in the scale of public opinion.

However no one knew that he was from the nightwing family, and that he had his team of "Tamers of shadow" as his team by his side.