

As predicted there was another shadow castle detected from within the city.

Turns out the Prison Of Envy owned by Jane Peterserbeg of the actual city Prison was the monarch of a shadow castle.

So like always the team took down the next monarch but had no clues on who may be the mastermind.

"Hmmm... I am sensing something like a vine or a vein from under the castle... but can't detect where it's from."

Brandon then created a projection.

It showed the previous shadow castles dotted all over town in the shape of a circle with the most recent one completing a shape.

"Hmmm... i still feel something that is like another shadow castle a lot more powerful than the others somewhere... but still can't pinpoint it"