

Once Nathan took down his father, things got a lot more calmer.

However their roles as the tamers of shadow were nowhere close to being over.

There were a lot more shadow related problems that kept happening within the city outside of the nightwing family influence.

However with Nathan and his best friends by his side, they could accomplish anything they could go up against.