

The Warriors are seeing in their new ship, it's about the size of a large RV with Juan being the Pilot of the ship.

The other features of the ship are a weapons locker, a food pantry and kitchen with a map room of the planet along with a room just for the beds that are kinda cramped.

While they were on the edge of the kingdom they had stopped the ship to talk about something.

"I know that this was thrust upon all of us, but the goal is to save the planet from the granate organization.."

Joel was talking with his team.

"But...we have to try our best no matter what..."

Joel with confidence in his voice had raised everyone's spirits a bit as they were also reluctant about doing this as well.
