

The Team then took a much needed break on saving the world to just sit back and enjoy the snow and the cold.

Joel was seen in winter clothing along with the others , checking a fancy looking tablet while the others were playing in the snow.

It's been about a month since the team set out to save the world even though it felt like it's been way longer.