

Prince Joel was not having a great time leading the smaller group, as well there are less people.

It was not until a granite organization attack that it was clear that the team was in trouble.

The team had then set off in their ship and set it to autopilot so that they could rest and relax as Joel took a brunt of the beating.

He cleaned up and then went to his room to rest which was very much needed.