

The next battle was against the two boyfriends Akira and Kage, The prince of light vs the The prince of shadows.

The two once after the battle started dishing out their most powerful attacks against the other.

The two wolves were pretty evenly matched as shadows and light are powerful elements on their own but once it came to summoning their beast forms for the grand finale.

After another magic explosion Kage was left standing as Akira was down but he picked up his bf bridal style and kissed him as he carried him to get recovered.