

It was Storm Against Zephyr the two wolves who can fly and use Water and Electricity respectively the two were using their own elements to fly around for most of the battle.

The two were pretty close both power and fighting wise and if it wasn't Zephyr using his beast form to finish up Storm in the final part of the battle it would have been tied.

In the end Zephyr barely won as Storm passed out from exhaustion.

Zephyr was able to use his electric powers to levitate Storm to the recovery room as he was badly beaten.