

Artemis Onyx Moonstone and his Twin Older brother Solaris Onyx Moonstone were born on December 12th 2000, making them 19 years old with the two being born 5 minutes apart.

Family-

Artemis has two brothers in laws with a niece and nephew, and he has 5 older sisters with another older brother along with a younger brother as well. Selene & Hugh Yevette (30) with their daughter Comet (5), Violet & Brandon Iori (27) with their son Brandon Jr (3). His other siblings are Celestia and Luna (25) who are also twins Annie (23) Jupiter (21) and the youngest Jasper (16). His parents King and Queen Moonstone have already been revealed, his other cousins have been revealed however his father's parents are deceased and been some for some time now way before he was born but his grandparents and great grandparents on his mother's side of his family are alive and well.

Backstory-

Artemis grew up as the lesser moonstone twin, with his older twin brother Solaris being the polar opposite of him except for their height and paw markings. He was overshadowed by his twin brother for his whole life, because Solaris has good looks with a model type body and his brother is also very good at singing in which Artemis is no good at. Growing up with his very famous brother really made Artemis resent his brother and envied his looks, his personality and the one crush he stole from him during middle school. Artemis struggled with anxiety and depression, which did spin out to insomnia and indigestion because of stress but would never open up about his problems because really no one paid that much attention to him growing up. His personality growing up was quiet and really timid, but he has an optimistic and caring nature that was hidden but shows when he is with his friends and the other people he cares about. His sore spots are his body image (at times) not being useful and hating when he can't help others in which sometimes when his depression flares up it can be 1 out of the three reasons, he also struggles with relationships with his very short love life not really helping him in the morale apartment.

He grew up a mostly boring life as the 57th prince of his kingdom, thinking that he can potentially be a king of Gaia but when the story takes place he is unsure if his parents will choose him to be the next king. He has a dark green magic aura with a shield for his weapon but struggles to use magic without a beast trigger a device that enables to use magic in short quick charges. He has struggled to use magic but has developed grass based powers that can heal someone with their mental or physical scars but refuses to use his power on himself as he puts others first before his needs.

Over time he will develop grass based powers and will get the power to heal others generated by his good kind hearted nature. He will also create a shield that he can change the size of along with a special howl magic attack.