

So some time later Artemis showed Amber the location of the temple she is hesitant to go inside it.

"I don't feel comfortable going in there it's just that-"

"Hey Amber?"

"y-yes?"

"I'm not going to force you inside the temple and I know you would be really hesitant to follow a strange magic wolf from another planet".

Amber got flustered for a moment and got a shy look on her face.

"would you like a hug? you seem to really need it"

Amber was hesitant but once Artemis opened his arms she gently walked up and hugged him tight as Artemis hugged her back. He blushed a bit and started wagging his tail like a dog.

"s-sorry you seem so huggable and your fur is so warm and soft..." Amber said blushing lightly.

What the two "lovebirds" did not know is that Amber's ex Bradley was watching in the shadows fuming over her new "boyfriend".

Artemis and Amber then kept walking and talking around the temple, and became very good friends with each other and were talking for hours.

Eventually at sunset Artemis walked Amber back to her home, with their hanging out with romantic undertones.

After Artemis walked her home he went back home himself showered and ate something and then went to bed after the day ended.