

So with everything in this story every so often another problem will appear this time, developers trying to destroy a plot of land.

This plot of land in question was the elemental forest on Gaia, a place where magic naturally is found, and is the home place of the Native wolf pack, a smaller kingdom not as big as the others.

Montgomery Eardwulf, the King of this land was willing to put his life on the line to protect his people, Dakota his son was also willing to do the same thing as well.

Akira while at the Moonstone Castle saw what was happening in the Native wolf forest.

In the meantime, the rest of the wolves were at the Moonstone castle, and Kage and Akira being the lovebirds that they were, decided to fuse into Marble for one month, and developed an outfit unique to them.

He is wearing a two tone white and black skin tight bodysuit, with it being white on the right black on the left, he is also wearing boots with the colors flipped.

"Whoa nice outfit you two" Solaris said smiling, "Thanks I designed it myself" Marble said smiling before it turning into a frown.

"What's wrong?"

"There is trouble in the Native wolf forest that land is in danger!" marble said.