ARTBOOK

WONDER WOMAN

2017

Ashley Mason

Oh! This is well worthy of the name Wonder Woman!! She is incredible. A great action pose and her face is most beautiful. Not to mention the colours are more than lucious! That body of hers in the lingerie version, stunning with such nice skin tones playing with the lighting. Beautiful all round Didi!!!

CAMMY

Ciarán M

Oh Didi, I've been looking forward to this! Your WIP of Cammy made me so excited to see you paint such a toned, muscular character and this finished piece absolutely lives up to what I had hoped it would be! 🐱🐱🐱🐱🐱

One thing that immediately pops out to me here is the lighting, there are so many wonderful things going on with it, both big and small. The overall lighting with most of Cammy's skin being tinted by cool shadows with warm rim-lights creates such a fantastic contrast, as do the small areas where the red parts of her clothes bounce red lights onto her body. The overall colours are so vibrant too and with a lot of Cammy being in shadow, those warmer lit sections as well as the reds and blonde hair really pop out and look so striking!

And of course the rendering is just fantastic across the whole painting! Cammy's face is utterly adorable and so sweet with her big blue eyes and that slight shine to her lips as she wears that cute little smile 😊. I do also really like her little nose with the shine on the skin and the dark shadow underneath it. And as an example of those lighting contrasts I spoke about before, I love how most of her face is in shadow, while her jaw and chin on both sides receive this warm light, which pops out even more against the cast shadow on her neck. And just to repeat myself, those blue eyes are so, so lovely 💙💙

Her hair is just fantastic and once again is a great example of the warm/cool colour contrast with her fringe having cool shadows across it, while the hair on the back of her head and the two long braids are glowing with warm, golden light. And the detail in the hair is terrific, the strands near her ear look great with how they overlap and curl around the back of her head. But what I adore the most is the larger strand of her fringe which has a lot of detail to it. I adore how that large strand is split down the middle with it's own rim-lighting and hard edge, while the top half of the strands are in shadow, while the tip receives some of that warm light (I really hope I described that well).

Before I move on to other things, something I really want to highlight is how Cammy's gloves and hat cast red lights onto Cammy. These areas being just below her hat with a warm light cast onto her hair, as well as a red bounce light cast onto her right bicep and right breast/ribs. These lights are beautifully rendered and blend so nicely into the surrounding tones of the hair, skin and clothes, with the latter standing out especially since the red contrasts so well with the green.

And since this next part is to do with lighting again, I'll mention it here and say that the overall rim-lighting looks fantastic in how it illuminates and accentuates her hat, the entirety of her left arm, her left breast and waist, as well as the left sides of her hip and both of her thighs. Each of these examples of rim-lighting are so very striking and bold with how well they contrast against the darker tones, especially the lights on the green sections since they contrast with the cool colour, as well as the lights on her thighs that are covered in shadow. I also like the softer examples of rim-lighting on her right shoulder and arm, also accentuating those forms but being more subtle and blending more with the shadows, letting the rim-lights on the opposite side pop even more.

I've been talking about lighting an awful lot in this comment and that's because you did such a great job with it! There's so much going on with the lighting, such as how you have those strong rim-lights on her left hip and the left sides of her thighs, while her right hip and the right sides of her thighs have this strongly contrasting shadow that further accentuate her voluptuous and toned shapes. And those shadow sides also have their own subtle rim-lights within the shadows.. OH! I also just noticed something new, the skin from Cammy's hip/waist is tinting her right hand where it touches the skin, that's yet another great detail!

Oh man, I haven't even talked about her clothes or anatomy yet 😊🐱.

Okay, I really like the textures of Cammy's gloves, they have this shine to them which looks really nice, as do the hard edges and the plane changes that are defined. My favourite parts are in her left arm and how the front ends of those discs are in shadow, while the edges of the discs are receiving warm lights that create a contrast with the shadow around them... I have no idea if that description makes sense 😊. Cammy's gloves have such an odd and unique design that it's hard to know what words to use 🐱. I do also appreciate how Cammy's left glove casts a shadow onto her skin, near to her bent elbow and I also like the lighting on her right glove and how the upper disc receives a warmer light closer to her body, while the centre of the disc is almost tinted blue with a reflective shine to it.

Cammy's anatomy is brilliantly defined and rendered too with hard edges to really show her muscles. I have a particular affection for when a toned woman raises her arms and we see the shape of her pec wrapping up over to her deltoid. So as you might expect, I really, really enjoy Cammy's left arm/shoulder and the hard edge that you have that separates her shoulder from her arm 🐱, the soft edge running through her arm that defines her bicep is also very appealing. And as I said before, the warm light wrapping around all of her left arm looks terrific. The muscles in her thighs are very well done too and I already described all of the lighting techniques that I enjoyed here except for one. I do really like the centre of her right thigh and how it's mostly this cool, almost blue tone with a warm-reddish tint on it's outside, while there's the warm yellow rim-light on the inside, creating a pleasing contrast on both sides.

And lastly, there's her green bodysuit which I am very impressed with 🐱.

The folds throughout the material are very well done, with the most striking section being beneath her breasts as well as between them. I like that the folds under her breasts are especially tense and tight, showing that her breasts are really pushing against the material (like they really want to be released 😊). While I also like the softer, more gentle folds between her breasts and how they dark and light tones more softly blend.

The rendering of her anatomy beneath the material looks fantastic too, the hard edges that define and separate the shapes of her abs look fantastic and I love the bottoms of her abs softly blend down into her pelvis. While the shapes of her breasts are so sensually rendered with dark shadows smoothly and softly defining their rounded shapes, the red bounce-light on her right side as well as the stronger rim-light on her left also create great and striking contrasts that further accentuate their shapes. And I also like how her outfit cuts over her left breast, revealing some of it's skin and teasing us 😊.

Okay, I've definitely missed describing some details and honestly, I have to choose to stop writing about some since this painting is so packed with marvellous details and this comment is already so long! 😊. Rest assured that I do really like the Extra version with the altered outfit and colours, the red and black colours are so sexy on Cammy, while I like that the lighting has changed in places with a dark blue shadow wrapping over her right breast. While the corset and top section of clothing wrapping over her chest beautifully frame and accentuate her breasts.... Wow, what a nice, short description, maybe I should try that more often 🐱

RAVEN

Chris Harris

This has to be one of my favorite Raven paintings I've seen a while! I love the pose she's in and the variation you put on the pose is divine 😊. You did a wonderful job with her face and expression and you created some amazing lingerie sets to put her in 😍. And let me just say the tentacle versions are some of the best I've seen yet. You should be really proud with this one, you've outdone yourself. Thanks and great big yeti hugs for you. Here hoping you have a great October. 😊❤️😊
