

CHANGELING SELFCEST

Story and Picture by : <http://vavacung.deviantart.com/>

Changeling Mane6 design belong to : <http://heilos.deviantart.com/>

Character belong to : Hasbro

In the end of Season 6, the Mane 6 returned to their home and found that their imposters (Black Changeling) were all still here. After hearing about how their queen had lost and that a new king had ascended, they surrendered to the Mane 6 and they were forced to do charity work to atone for their crimes while under the Mane6's supervision. However, they refused to give up the love they currently had in order to become colorful Changelings and join Thorax's hive, saying they will find their old queen once they had atoned from all their crimes.

The Mane6 let these Changelings turn into Changeling versions of themselves, to better identify which pony each Changeling belonged to.

Pinkie Pie lets her Changeling help her with the bakery work and parties, at first, her customers and their children were afraid of the Changeling. But after a while, they grew fond of it and got used to its presence. Some were even beginning to make contact or talk with it without fear anymore. Changeling Pinkie Pie was also happy with this work, because they gave love to it freely without any need for it to steal it at all. For the first time in its life, it could finally smile and laugh with unhindered joy.

After a long day of hosting a birthday party for one filly, Pinkie Pie and her Changeling took some time off to blow off some steam with each other...behind the thick brushes and under the moon...

Being Generous doesn't mean Rarity will have a completely open mind without any doubt. She still has to have some doubts in the Changeling she was supposed to watch over. After all, this species has caused her much trouble twice already. It made her unsure if this scary looking creature could be good.

But once she got to know it better, understanding its reasons for its bad behavior (because it was taught to be one), she started to believe that maybe a Changeling can change after all, perhaps it really was possible to teach one to be good. It can be taught what was the right and wrong things to do and learn from those experiences. A Changeling is also quick to adapt to many things, and her Changeling proved this by being able to keep up with her work.

It also learned to be generous like her by helping her and others without asking for anything in return. Well....Maybe it still got love to feed in return, but that's acceptable, since it no longer steals it from unwilling ponies anymore

This white pony thinks she can order me around. Thinking she can teach me how to be good. But I'm tired with all of that. I'm sick of pretending to be a good changeling in the shape of a mare. Tonight I will show her just how monstrous I am. I still have the honor of a bad guy to keep.

I sneaked into her room one night, looking at her beautiful form sleep under blanket. I rose that blanket off her and looked upon her shapely plot that she kept turned to me all the time because she wanted to avoid facing me. I lusted after it for so long, and tonight...I will take that plot of hers.

I crawled above her body and woke her up, surprising her. She tried to scream but I shut her mouth with my own mouth. I tasted her saliva before moving down to taste her sweet nectar below. She shivered from my touch. She seemed to be unable to call for help anymore even after I let her mouth go now, maybe deep down inside, she wanted this to happen. She wanted to be taken by a scary black monster like me, so I took her...I took her hard, bringing the passion to both of us, until both of us achieved so many orgasms that we were utterly exhausted.

After the sex ended, she told me that I did a good job for the first time of playing role-play. I'm really good with it she said, I'm happy to hear that from her. I did a good job pleasing my friend, it felt right when I did it, and it tasted so good...

But then. Rarity and her Changeling caught a naughty filly eavesdropping and peeking into their private time in the middle of the night. They start thinking what to do with her...

Ever since Sweetie Belle learnt about sex from sex-ed class and some romance novels Rarity had, she was always curious about it. But she was too embarrassed to talk about it with anyone or try it out with any colt.

But tonight, she happened to get caught peeking at her sister while she was having sex with the Changeling she was watching over. At first she thought her sister will scold her and tell her to go back to her room, like most adults did because they think she was too young to enjoy this kind of activity. But her older sister surprised her. She instead invited her to have fun with them. This is the best night ever for Sweetie Belle. Not only was she taught about the birds and the bees practically, she also got to spend her time with her sister with a deep bonding activity.

Her first time with sex was so memorable, because the pony she trusted most, a pony she was familiar with, was here with her. Her first time sex wasn't with some stranger, but with her sister who cares so much for her well-being...and Changeling who cares so much for her passion more than it own

Rainbow Dash didn't like it, to have somepony masquerading as her, because she thought of herself as too awesome for anypony to pretend to be her. So when she got tasked to watch over the Changeling who pretended to be her before, who was now a Changeling form of herself, she always challenged it to a race every time she had the chance. Simply to prove how awesome she was, and how much better the original was over the imposter. Changeling Rainbow Dash tried hard to keep up with the athletic mare. But even if it shared the same appearance as Rainbow Dash, it didn't share her athletic skill and was always left behind.

One day Rainbow Dash's mind was too far focused on her race. She increased the speed of her flying until the Changeling couldn't follow her fast enough, where it disappeared from her vision. When she reached the goal and waited for it, she had to wait half an hour before this Changeling finally came back into her vision and reached the goal itself.

Rainbow Dash thought about mocking for its slowness, but then she realized that she had forgotten her supervising task and this changeling had actually left her custody several times. This Changeling could have used this opportunity to escape from her. But it never did; it always came back to her. Somehow, that made her realize that even a Changeling can be loyal too...

Her mind had now changed. Now, she wanted this Changeling to be more like her. She was going to train this Changeling to fly faster, even if it couldn't fly as fast as her, she was going to make it become the fastest flying Changeling at the least.

Rainbow Dash's tomboyish personality always made everypony mistake her for being Fillyfooler, a mare that has no interest in stallions. While, it's true that she liked fooling around with mares from time to time, it didn't mean she wasn't interested in stallions and their tools at all. She always wondered what it felt like to have real stallionhood deep inside her marehood after all. How it was different from the cold rubber dildo she always used.

But so far, no stallion had ever shown interest in her that way yet, and she didn't like to approach them herself. She thought it would make her less awesome that way, to beg for sex from a stallion like that. She always wondered if there was someone out here who wished to cum inside Rainbow Dash...To Inject their warm life essence deep inside her womb...

But her Changeling partner would be able to satisfy all her fantasies, since it could either be male or female for her. At first, she planned to let it have sex with her if it was able to win against her in a race. But then she realized that meant she will never be able to have sex with it at all, if it can't win against her until the very last day of its charity work. So she changed her rules, saying that the Changeling must satisfy her sexual needs if it lost to her instead.

Rainbow Dash was more like a bisexual pony interested in both genders, and fooling around with this Changeling was the best thing that ever happened in her sex life. With the ability to have a stallionhood, yet stay within a mare body, it enabled her to live her secret fantasy. She was also happy that her Changeling didn't take the "10 seconds flat" trait from her. Therefore, it could last longer than her, as she didn't last much longer in each set of orgasm than the Changeling did. She always enjoyed multiple orgasms, as this Changeling lasted long enough to give her a lot of them before it finally got its own chance to experience orgasm itself. And also enjoy the title of being the first creature to cum inside Rainbow Dash.

Applejack was an honest pony, which is why she doesn't trust in this Changeling she is supposed to watch over. She believes that these creatures are always dishonest, that they are always lying and can never be trusted. She locks this Changeling inside the barn at night instead of letting it sleep in her house, because she doesn't trust it at all. She wanted her family to be safe from it, and the Changeling agreed to her decision, saying it was alright with it. But Applejack knew it was lying, she just doesn't like it...

The Changeling helps Applejack with every chore she has, even if Applejack doesn't trust this Changeling, she still always asks it first, if the work is too much for it or not. But no matter what, it always said yes, always saying it can do it, always saying it's fine. But Applejack knows that it's lying to her again and again...And she hates it....

The Changeling kept working for her, kept lying to her, and Applejack never liked it doing so...She kept giving it more hard work, yet the Changeling kept doing all of it without saying no or ever complaining...But Applejack could see through all of its lies...She could feel this Changeling continuing to get weaker each day...

Until one day, its body couldn't take it anymore. A Changeling's' full of holes' leg wasn't made for bucking apple trees and it finally broke this time. Applejack knew it. But the Changeling kept pretending that it didn't hurt and was still trying to keep working. Applejack couldn't take it anymore. She took it back to the barn.

Applejack was crying as she was curing the Changeling's injure leg...The Changeling wondered why she was crying, so Applejack asked the Changeling why did it keep lying...Why...Why can't it be honest just once...Why can't it stop wearing its mask...She hate the way it lie...

The Changeling looked at the pony...It wondered why she was sad, most ponies were always happy when it was lying...But why was this pony hurting so much...Finally...It decided to be honest for the first time in its life...It told her that it was afraid to be honest...If Applejack knew that it didn't like sleeping in the barn or that it wasn't comfortable to work on some work, then it feared that pony will decide to lock it up inside a cage or worse...Decide to end its life...

Changelings can't be honest; lying is what Changelings need in order to survive. No pony likes Changelings for what they truly are, that's why it has to keep wearing its mask. If it need to be loved, it has to lie. It have to pretend to be someone else and it must keep its target happy. The Changeling said that it doesn't like lying too, but it has no other choice if it wants to survive and remain alive.

Applejack said it doesn't need to lie anymore, and that she wants it to be honest with her from now on. With tears welling in its eyes, the Changeling listened to it and finally decided to show its true feelings. It cried like a child, it told Applejack that its body hurt so bad...And that it was very hungry too, because Applejack doesn't give any love to it at all, as it was afraid to feed love from any pony. The barn is too cold for its kind, and some chores in the farm are too heavy for it to do without injuring itself...It told Applejack everything it was hiding inside. Every fear, every want and every need, without hiding anything...

For the first time in its life, there was some pony who let this Changeling show that it can be honest too....

On every weekend, Applejack and her Changeling friend always went to a meeting at the friendship castle, so that both ponies and Changelings had a chance to talk with their own friends. The Mane6 use this occasion to share their stories about the Changeling each of them watch over, while the Changelings chat amongst themselves about what they experience from being with a pony without the need to hide their true-self, seeing how good it is to be a good guy for once.

But one week, on the day after the meeting, Applejack noticed that her Changeling was starting to act rather strange when it was around her. It often looked at her when it thought she didn't notice and turned its head away when she turned to look back. It seemed distraught from time to time as well. Especially when it helped to gather the apples while she was bucking the tree. It would get hit in the head by a fallen apple sometimes. Applejack asked it if it had anything it wanted from her, it said nothing. But Applejack knew that it was lying again...Applejack didn't like this...

So she started to investigate its strange behavior, and what she found when it looked at her, was that it would sneak a glance at her flank. Sometimes it even dared enough to look at her genitals when she was bucking the apple tree. She wondered why her Changeling was suddenly interested in her sexuality out of nowhere. So she asked her close friend Rarity and Rainbow Dash about it. They both blushed when she asked them, but finally shared their secrets to her eventually, about what they did on the bed with their Changelings and what they experienced from their unique sets of genitals.

Now that she finally knew, she realized that her Changeling must have heard this story from its own Changeling friends and maybe now it wonders if its going to have a chance to be in that kind of activity with her. Applejack isn't a stranger to sex. She kinda fools around with her mare friends from time to time. But to know that Changelings have a real horsecock to play with, it kinda excites her, as she never played with a real cock before just like her friend, Rainbow Dash. Because...well...If she really wants to be honest. Ponyville kinda doesn't have that many nice, perfect stallions and most of the nice stallions are already taken by other mares. Her brother is also out of the options as well...

But she doesn't think she can let her Changeling have sex with her too easily. It will have to earn it, and it will have to be honest if it wants this nice flank of hers. So she starts teasing it obviously, lifting her tail from time to time, to let it see what it wants to see more clearly, posing herself in a sexy and alluring manner and dropping the hint when chatting with it sometime often. It seems that it was not easy at first, because this Changeling was starting to become more like her. for once, it put her own stubbornness to shame.

But finally...After all of that teasing and inviting, Changeling's body seem couldn't take it anymore. It finally go against its owner mind and showing it interest in her. It was then that a nice, average size horsecock between its hind legs finally showed itself to the world. The Changeling could no longer hide its deep desire anymore with it body being honest like this. So it finally confessed to Applejack. It said it really wished it could have sex with her and said it was sorry for thinking about her that way. But Applejack surprised it with kiss before both stubborn pony and Changeling finally let themselves fall prey to their lustful instincts and rolled in the hay with each other in the end...pun intended...

The Changeling that Fluttershy watches over was actually considered the caretaker of the group of Changelings. She was like a stepmother who helps her true mother watch over the children. It has a duty to take care of the health and food supply for all of the other Changelings, so it would always be the one who volunteers to find love when the members of the team are unable to find it on their own and that's why it was chosen to be disguised as Fluttershy, because it had a personality as similar as hers.

Ever since it started to harvest love, it always believed that ponies and other sapient beings simply existed as sources of love for Changelings. It always had to pretend to be so many ponies in order to gain enough love. Not only for itself but for the other Changelings that failed to find love on their own as well. So many masks, so many roles, it trained itself so hard to be the very best actor it could, but in the end, it lost itself...It no longer knew who was it's true self anymore...

But Fluttershy saved it. She helped it to find its true self again and told it that it didn't need to be anypony but its true self around her. She also proved to it that sapient creatures such as herself were not the only the source for love. She introduced it to all her animal friends, taught it how to take care of them, and how to make them like us, assuring her that Changelings don't need to pretend to be anyone but themselves when being around these animals.

The Changeling also discovered that animals do indeed produce love as well, even if it's not as high an amount as ponies, but it's still love no less.

Fluttershy also taught it the way of kindness and how to gain love from either people or animals with it. She taught it how to be a better pony, how to be loved without pretending to be or replacing some existing pony. She helped it to learn and create its own original disguise and to gain love from everypony while it acted as its true self. She helped it to become the most kind Changeling in existence.

Applejack wasn't the only pony who knew about her friend having sex with a Changeling and the unique sexual organs Changeling had. Fluttershy happened to know it as well, and that made her curious about it. Being a caretaker to all animals made her familiar with mating and sex. But she was still a virgin herself, as she never had any sexual activity with any other pony before, not even with a mare. Whenever she would masturbate, it was always with her own hooves, because she was not even brave enough to buy a sex toy at the store.

She was afraid to ask for sex from other ponies, especially from stallions. But when she knew that the Changeling who was staying with her in the same house had the tool for it...The tool to please and satisfy her curiosity about male. It was hard for her to hide her secret desire she had for this Changeling, and somehow the Changeling knew it. Her Changeling was very familiar with sex, as sometimes it uses sex to get some quick love from a willing stallion, so it knew the signs of a pony who desires for sex.

It approached Fluttershy and asked her if she wished for it to please her in a sexual way. It made the bold move to Fluttershy who was afraid to do it herself, and rather meekly yet excitedly, Fluttershy accepted the Changeling's invite.

While on bed together at night, the Changeling admitted the truth to Fluttershy that it was still a virgin as well, it explained that this was the first time it ever used its horsecock part. This is the first time it will take the male role, as normally, it would only have sex while disguised as a mare, always being the one who was on the receiving end in sexual activity. It hopes that it will be able to please Fluttershy well enough for her first time sex...Hoping that it will be memorable to her.

And memorable is exactly what Fluttershy remembers from having sex with this Changeling... Somehow, maybe perhaps because this Changeling used to have sex as mare several times, it knew how to treat mares better. It knew what mares wanted, it knew what mares feared in sex, and it knew which part of mares were good to touch and which actions that must be avoided. This Changeling was very kind with Fluttershy, until both of them reached the end of their blissful session of sex.

Fluttershy thanked her Changeling and said, that for the first time acting as a male, her Changeling did a very good job. She believed that someday, if it could not find a stallion to feed, then there must be some mares who might love to have sexual activity with it. Who knows, maybe this Changeling might get more love from mares than from stallions, because mares love this kind of stallion...A stallion who cares for their passion and pleasure more than their own.

Twilight had quite the problem with the Changeling she was supposed to watch over. The reason for this problem was because this Changeling who was disguised as her, wasn't a master in magic like her or had a personality similar to her at all. But rather, it was simply because it was the commander of the infiltration team. This Changeling took everything really seriously and seemed to not open its mind to her ever. It always made itself look tough and stoic around her. It's true that it worked hard on anything she requested and did much charity work without any complaints. But she really wishes it would be friendlier to her, just like other Changelings who started to be friendly with her friends.

So she started to investigate and see how her friends were able to make their Changelings open their minds and be friendlier with them. It seemed like each of her friends used each of their reputable elements to win their Changeling's heart. Laughter, Generosity, Loyalty, Honesty and kindness...But what about her? Her element was magic, but she did not think using magic to make Changeling be her friend was the right thing to do. But then she remembered her second title.

She was the Princess of Friendship too. Maybe she can use friendship to win this Changeling's heart.

Therefore, she started to talk with her Changeling more often, even if it did not need to talk back or when talk was necessary. She made the room it lived in more comfortable for it to rest each day and made sure to not overwork it. She wanted to make her place feel like a home for it, more than its prison and show that it was thought of as a roommate, rather than a prisoner. In the meantime, she started to investigate Changelings as well, to understand more about its personalities and everything else she needed to know.

After investigating for a while, Twilight finally noticed something. It was true that this Changeling seemed able to do everything she requested without complaining. But somehow when it came to helping her sort books in the library, it always had trouble to do it and sorted books in the wrong places from time to time. So she asked if it had some trouble with reading or something, it did not want to tell the truth at first. But eventually, with every nice thing Twilight did for it, one day, it finally showed the result she wanted...It finally opened up to her.

Changeling said it didn't have much knowledge in languages and other things, as Changelings don't have a school like ponies do...They never went to school at all. They only knew how to talk properly and read simple words. But the books in this library were filled with words that it didn't understand. Twilight asked it why it didn't tell her in the first place. It said it didn't want to show its weaknesses, especially to the enemy. A Commander Changeling like itself is supposed to be smart and strong. It is supposed to be able to do everything it can, on its own...

Twilight smiled and said that everyone always had something they weren't good at and it's okay for them to ask for help from someone, because that isn't a sign of weakness at all. She asked it if it wanted her to be a teacher and teach it everything it wanted to know. Changeling hesitated at first to accept help from a pony that was supposed to be its enemy. But then it realized that it doesn't have anything to lose from accepting this and everything to gain. So it accepted her invitation to learn and became Twilight's student.

Once it opened itself, this Changeling really surprised Twilight in every way. It's curiosity and hunger for knowledge really reminded her of her younger self. The Changeling's commander who was always serious in everything was gone, leaving only a bookworm Changeling who was not only Twilight's student, but a faithful reading partner as well. Twilight was really happy that her friendship plan was finally working.

She can finally be friends with this Changeling, and in turn, that Changeling was happy to be friends with her as well. Because this pony gave her love to it so freely now, pure and delicious love, it didn't need to steal scraps of love from Twilight anymore, when Twilight was not aware of it doing so like it always did in the past...

One day in a meeting, as all of her friends surprised her when they started talking about having sex with their own Changelings and sharing their experiences with each other. Twilight was so embarrassed and became silent the whole time, until all of her friends asked for her story. They were surprised when she told them the facts that she never have sex with her Changeling before. They apologized to Twilight for bringing up such a lewd topic in this meeting, they just truly believed that Twilight already had sex with her own Changeling, when in fact, Twilight was more innocent than her friends were giving her credit for.

Twilight looked at her friends with a bright red face and asked if since they were having sex with their Changelings, Is that meant they were in love with their Changelings and planned to be their special somepony? Her friends all looked at each other and laughed. It made Twilight confused with their reaction as she didn't understand what was so funny. Before Rarity told her that sex wasn't only for lovers, but it could be a fun activity between close friends as well. Then, they all told her the concept of "Friendship With Benefits" to the innocent Alicorn princess.

Since that day, Twilight always thought back to what her friend told her. She always looked at her reading partner nervously. In one hoof, as a Princess Of Friendship, she wanted to learn more about this "Friendship With Benefits". She never knew about this kind of friendship existing before, now she desired to experience it herself, to know more about it in case she might face this problem on some friendship mission in the future.

But on other hoof...She feared sex. It's not because she feared it will hurt or not feel good as she always fantasied about. But it's because she feared that once she had sex with her Changeling, she might be attracted to it or worse, fall in love with it...She didn't have anything against Changelings, and didn't mind to spend the rest of her life with this Changeling if their love was really genuine. But she knew that once it's charity work was over, all the Changelings would leave Ponyville and go back to find their lonely queen. It will long gone from her life and it might hurt her a lot for losing it if she fell in love with it...

The Changeling somehow noticed her worries, and it really worried about her. It went seeking help from the other mane6 and asked what was bothering Twilight? But once it knew that Twilight was worrying about sex, it confused. Being a commander meant it never needed to harvest love, but wait for the harvesters to come back and offer love to it to feed instead. So this meant sex was something new for it and this Changeling did not understand how deep this sex thing was. So it came clean with Twilight and offered to have sex with her if she wanted it. Twilight was surprised at how bold her changeling was, but accepted its invite in the end.

But they didn't get into having sex right away after that. Both of them were still new to sex, so they started to study and learn more about it together from books first. In time, they knew more about how to have safe sex, how to satisfy their partner, positions, pleasure spots, etc. They decided to take this sexual plan very slowly. Each night, trying something light first like making out, hoofjobs and oral sex.

Until one night, when they decided they were ready and comfortable with each other, they finally took their sexual activity to the next step...

Their first time sex was a little bit clumpy at first. But they tried as best as they could to use everything they learned from the books to please their partner well. And without Twilight knowing it, her Changeling had secretly trained itself to prevent premature ejaculations just to make sure it will not blow its load too soon. It masturbated and trained its muscle control, just to prepare for this night, for this mare. And thanks to this, the night of their passion went so well until the very end, where they achieved their final pleasure together...And the love this Changeling got from this mare on that night was the most delicious love it ever feasted on...

....It had fallen in love with her....

There were six ponies, but seven Changelings, as the last Changeling was disguised as Spike, So Spike volunteer to watch over this last Changeling himself. Twilight thought about protesting to this decision at first, because she thought he might not able to handle it. But since he is the one who be had befriended Thorax first in the past, it was actually fitting that he would be the one who fit this task the most. So with optimism, she let Spike watch over the last Changeling, and since Spike stayed with her in the same castle, she would still be able to watch over the both of them anyway.

The last Changeling was quite small, the same size as him. But it said that it was already an adult, explaining that this was as large of a body it could grow. That is why it was perfect to disguise as Spike, because the Changeling couldn't disguise as something that was too big or too small from its original size. Spike wondered if there were any more reasons why it chose to disguise as him...

The last Changeling said that because it's a sidekick just like Spike, (and the kick part is completely true), it is like the omega of Changeling's pack. The weakest and smallest Changeling in this team of infiltrators, it was someone to kick around when the team was in a bad mood. The joker of the team to make them laugh, easy to ignore and be forgotten...The only reason the team needed to keep it, was because it was the only one that could disguise itself as a filly or colt.

The last Changeling disguised itself as a Changeling version of him. But it seems that it preferred a female version of him. It said that it just wanted to be in a female shape like all the other Changelings in the team. The last Changeling happened to be very obedient and helped Spike with every chore the he had in Friendship castle. His chores was done so fast with its help, so he had a lot of free time left each day from that point on.

Spike was always very grateful to have this Changeling as his work partner. So he treated it well and hung out with it after their chores were done. He introduced it to many funny games and movies. Taught it how to read so both of them can enjoy comic time together, and also found out later about this Changeling's love drawing. It told him that it had drawn a funny picture on Fluttershy's throne before when it was disguise as him. Sadly, it was kicked around by the others after doing that...

One day, the last Changeling smiled and said thank you to Spike with a happy voice. It said that this is the first time that someone noticed it, cared for it and made it happy. He was the first true friend that it ever had and the love he let it feed on freely was really delicious. It admitted that at first, it thought that Spike was a worthless sidekick, just like itself. But no...Spike wasn't a worthless sidekick. He was an assistant, a supporter of the mane6, and it wished to be like him. It wished it could be more useful for its own team, it wished that someday they will notice it and see it as a friend on the same level as them.

Spike said Changeling can change, and explains that the other Changelings seem to be starting to change as well. They are less aggressive and friendlier now, after spending their time with each of the mane6. He believes that they will see it as friends now and he also said, that if it really wanted to be the perfect assistant, he will help train it, because he is the number one assistant to the Princess Of Friendship after all.

So Spike took his Changeling as his student, just like Twilight took her own Changeling in the end.

Spike is like an adult trapped in younger body. Under pony law, though, he's already at a mature age since he's only 3 years younger than Twilight. This was partly because he is a dragon, a species that have considerably longer lifespans. His younger body may grow at a slow crawl, but mentally he was an adult; it was one of the reasons he rarely hung out with colts and fillies. He preferred the company of older mares and stallions (plus one 1000+ years old God Of Chaos) who were closer to his age than others, so it was normal for him to have adult a knowledge. Additionally, working in library where information was readily available, the subject of sex was something he couldn't exactly avoid.

Despite it's long-term benefits, having a visually young body annoyed Spike. He looked like a child, and because of that fact ponies often treated him as such, making it impossible for him to explore his sexual curiosities since adults saw him as minor, even though the law stated that he wasn't. And he can't go after any other minor. Because, the very last thing he wanted to do was ruin some young filly's innocent, so he kept his urges in check and only allowed his claws to satisfy him.

That changed one day when he learned that his housemate, Twilight Sparkle, was having sex with the Changeling she watch over. With them living together, it would have been hard for him not to notice. In fact, during the mane 6's weekend meetings, of which he stealthily listened in on since he wasn't invited, he learned that the rest already had their way with their own respective Changelings as well. That information had him look at his own, a Changeling that disguised itself as him in the past, and was now under his supervision, in a new light. With it, perhaps he might luck out and finally able to satisfy his fantasies.

One evening, Spike gathered his courage and finally confessed his sexual frustrations to the last Changeling and asked if it wished to explore them with him. Much to his relief, the Changeling said that it's always shared the same curiosities as well, seeing as normal Changeling rarely had sex with each other. It mostly occurred between normal Changelings and the queen. Also, because of its small body, it couldn't shape-shift into the form of anything but the young state of any creature, so it couldn't use sex to gather love like the others. Just like Spike, it was a super virgin, which is why it agreed into having sex with him.

Soon enough, they both had sex with each other. They took it very slow and gentle at first, using everything they knew about the other to ensure they felt comfort and passion. They started with any bit of foreplay they knew before leading to the actual sex, though. It was during the act that Spike finally discovered that Changelings are hermaphroditic creatures, meaning they posses both a penis and a vagina within itself. It was one of the reasons they could transform into either male or female with ease.

The last Changeling hid its face behind its claws, apologizing with a meek and fearful voice when Spike spotted its penis with a look of surprise. It made wistful face, saying that it can't disguise it penis away while being in half dragon half Changeling form like it was. Hoping to salvage the moment, it then asked if Spike would prefer it if it were to change into full female dragon or not, so the sight of his maleness wouldn't bother him.

Spike, however, declined the Changeling's offer. He said he wanted it to stay true to itself, so he could satisfy it as best as he could. If its penis was part of it sex, then he would just have to satisfy it as well. Spike went straight to main sexual intercourse with Changeling, pleasing its pussy with his own penis while stroking its penis with his own claw in the meantime. Both of them drowned into a night of passion, exploring the end of their pleasurable world together. Once they were both satisfied, they fell asleep into each other arms, a happy smile on their faces. Their curiosities were finally sated, and it was better than what their wildest fantasies could hope for...

Epilogue

Love
LSS

Like many things in life, all good things must come to an end. The Changeling's charity work had finally reached its final day. And the day that both Changelings and Ponies were dreading had arrived. All seven Changelings never wished to leave, but they worry for their queen who was abandoned by all Changelings. They had to leave to check on her, so now they must say good bye to those who took care of them until now.

Pinkie Pie hugged her own Changeling so hard until her Changeling thought she was trying to break it, so it couldn't leave and would have to stay at hospital. But it somehow survived Pinkie Pie's death hug, before thanking Pinkie Pie for the last party she hosted for it and the other Changelings, including every little thing she done for them. It said it will always remember the way of Laughter, so if it found anyone sad, it will make sure to find a way to make them laugh and smile.

Applejack gently hugged and comforted her own Changeling who was crying over her chest. It was really honest with what it felt here and cried with genuine sadness. It said again and again that it didn't want to leave, but declined Applejack invitation to stay every time. It knew the team needed it, the queen needed it, so it had to go...Applejack wished it good luck on its journey and gave it saddle bags filled with Sweet Apple Acres apples, telling it to lie only when it was absolutely necessary and to never forget the way of Honesty.

Rainbow Dash still won every race she had against her Changeling, even as her Changeling tried hard to win against her until it finally become the fastest Changeling in the end. It told her it will train harder always and will return to challenge her for victory. Rainbow Dash smiled and said that she will always be here to accept it challenge when they would meet again. Deep down inside, she wanted to ask it to stay with her, but she knew, that the way of Loyalty she taught this Changeling means it will not abandon its friends, even for her.

Fluttershy and the other animals came to say good bye to her Changeling. Her Changeling cried a bit when it saw that all the animals were here for it, all willingly giving it final doses of love for its journey. The Changeling said it will miss them all, especially a little white squirrel that attached itself to it the most and helped it take care of the many animals all this time. But to its surprise, it showed that it wished to be Changeling's pet and go on the journey with it. The Changeling looked at her former keeper and asked if she was alright with it. Fluttershy nodded and wished both of them the best of luck. The Changeling hugged Fluttershy and said it will always remember her way of Kindness and would make sure to spread it to everypony it meets on its journey.

Rarity prepared four season clothing for her Changeling. She wanted it to be as comfortable as it could be on its journey. She told her Changeling that her boutique door was always open for it when it would return. She expressed that it was the best work partner she ever had and wished that someday she could entrust it to take care of one of her branches of the boutique. Her Changeling said it will remember her offer and promised to remember her way of Generosity.

Twilight told her Changeling that it didn't need to go; it could stay here because she thought that someday, Chrysalis will return to her in the future, no matter if she would come here for revenge or help. But her Changeling said it couldn't do it, it knew that their queen wasn't exactly the best, but she was still their mother. She was willing to do many bad things so that her children could survive. But now, every Changeling at the hive had all abandoned her. It didn't know how she might be feeling right now, but it was likely to be very bad, and all it wanted was to make sure she was alright. It wanted to return to take care of her, show her that some Changelings still appreciated her efforts and won't abandon her. Twilight understood its reasons and gave it a survival kit, map and many useful books for its long journey. Twilight hoped for it to return to Ponyville someday as an ally, not as an enemy...She wished her way of Friendship will make Chrysalis see the light someday....

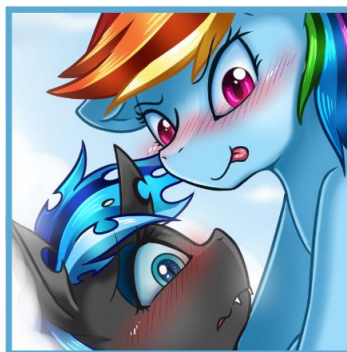

Spike held his Changeling's hand and wished for it to have good luck on its journey. But somehow he could sense this Changeling still had some doubt in its decision. So he asked it if it was worried about something in particular. It said that it was afraid that it will become a useless sidekick again...It wasn't sure if it was a good idea for it to go with the team, it didn't want to be a burden on the group, it didn't want to slow the team down on the journey to search for their mother. Spike smiled and told it that it was his number one student. He believed that it can be the good support of the team. It should have more confidence in itself and if it had any problems, it could always send a letter to him with the fire-spell he taught it. It listened to his encouragement and smiled, before it wiped away its tears and said that it will make him proud. The way of the good supporting assistant will always be with it.

All six ponies and one dragon observed all the Changelings remove their disguises and return back to their normal-selves once again. They waved good bye to them and they began flying away horizontally, wishing them all good luck and hope for them to return someday...

THE END

True Ending

One season later...

The Mane 6 exited the hospital, all with a blank expression on their faces, while Spike was frowning.

Recently, all of the Mane 6 except for Twilight felt a morning sickness and emptied the contents of their stomachs' that morning. They thought they had caught the flu, so they were heading, escorted by Spike as their support, to the Ponyville Hospital.

With the Nurses and the Doctor available, the mares went through some tests, before they had to go to the waiting room to wait for their results. In the end, they got told what was wrong with them, or in fact, what was alright with them. And the results had left the mares in shock and a Drake very surprised Drake. They all left after their results were told, bringing us to the present.

"Well," Spike said and look at each of the mares, "That was surprising to say the least."

All of the mares stared at Spike.

"We're pregnant, Spike" - Rarity huffed – "of course it's surprising when you know you didn't copulate with anypony, and yet somehow you still get pregnant."

The other mares nodded in agreement. Spike just stared at them.

"Well, maybe not anypony but perhaps anyling?" At the mention of this, the color of the mare's faces turned to a crimson flush and started to stutter at his innuendo. Spike chuckled.

"Yes, I knew about that, and that's what surprises me. I didn't know ponies and Changelings were compatible." Twilight explained her thoughts but stopped when she noticed that everypony was staring at her, specifically at her belly. "What?"

"Twilight...Didn't you have sex with your Changeling too? Why didn't you get pregnant like us?" Rainbow Dash asked.

“Oh...Well...That’s because I always took a birth control pill every time I had sex with my Changeling. It helped prevent embryo implantation, so I will not pregnant even if my egg was fertilized. ...Didn't any of you know the concept of safe sex?”

All the other Mane 6 looked at each other with silence.

“Well....We know that...We just...never knew that Changelings could impregnate ponies...So we kind of let them go...raw...”

Right at this moment, one scroll popped out of the air beside the Drake and Spike caught the scroll. He noticed his name on it; it seems to be from his Changeling counterpart. He opens the scroll and starts to read with a worried face. The mares just watched him until he smiled and that make the others wonder.

“What was that, Spike” Twilight asked him.

“Well...Knowing that all of you...errr...nearly all of you got pregnant with your Changelings, I kind of worried that I might cause my Changeling to become pregnant too. So while I was waiting for all of you at the hospital, I send the letter to ask it. But it seems that normal Changelings can't get pregnant without a Changeling Queen’s assistance, because only a queen can lay eggs. They need a blank egg from the queen if they want to get pregnant with their own child, so I'm not a father...yet” Spike then sighed with relief.

“Lucky you...” Rainbow Dash huffed

“Wait...Doesn't that mean you had sex with your Changeling too?” Applejack asked in wonder. Spike suddenly became aware of what he just revealed. He turned to look at Twilight and became pale...

“Spike....We need to talk....”

5 seasons later...

All 5 mares gave birth to 5 healthy hybrid pony/Changeling foals. Their father had still not returned yet after all this time. After watching her friends having their kids running around them, seeing them chatting about their motherhood lives, it made Twilight unsure if she felt relief or regret that she had taken the safe sex route back then. But since she and Spike didn't have their own children, they volunteered to take care of their friends' foals from time to time, when they needed some time to rest or their job was behind schedule.

From time to time, Twilight would gaze far into the horizon, wishing that someday, her Changeling would return...So she might finally have a child of her own....

THE TRUE END